THE BEGINNER GUIDE

WHAT IS SPORTS ARBITRAGE (SUREBET)?

Sports arbitrage, also called Surebet, is a way of making money from differences in betting odds across different betting platforms.

Instead of predicting which team will win, you place bets that cover every possible outcome of a match.

CHELSEA VS MANCHESTER UNITED

Imagine Chelsea and Manchester United are playing a football match.
You visit two betting platforms, Bet365 and Stake, and notice that they are offering different betting opportunities.

For the Both Teams to Score market, you find these odds:

bet365

BOTH TEAMS TO SCORE: YES

ODDS 2.10

Stake

BOTH TEAMS TO SCORE: NO

ODDS 2.10

TOTAL BUDGET: $100 | $50 ON EACH OUTCOME

First, you sign up on Bet365 and place $50 on YES, meaning you believe both Chelsea and Manchester United will score.

Next, you visit Stake, create an account, and place the remaining $50 on NO, meaning at least one team will not score.

THE RESULT

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN THE MATCH ENDS?

1-1

Both teams score

Your Bet365 bet wins, and you receive $105.

2-0

Chelsea wins without conceding

Your Stake bet wins, and you receive $105.

0-0

Neither team scores

Your Stake bet wins, and you receive $105.

THE $5 PROFIT EXAMPLE

No matter how the match ends, one of your two bets wins.

You invested $100, received $105, and made $5 profit, provided both bets were successfully placed at those odds and no fees or settlement differences affected the result.

THAT'S SPORTS ARBITRAGE (SUREBET)!

TRADITIONAL BETTING PLATFORMS

Many traditional betting platforms, such as Bet365 and Stake, do not like customers who consistently take advantage of profitable odds.

When they notice that you are regularly making money through sports arbitrage, they may reduce how much you can bet, restrict your account, or even close it.

This makes it difficult to continue doing sports arbitrage consistently on traditional betting platforms like Bet365, Betano and Stake.

THE TITANARB APPROACH

DECENTRALIZED BETTING PLATFORMS

Sports arbitrage also exists on decentralized prediction markets and sports betting exchanges, such as Polymarket and BetDEX.

Unlike traditional sportsbooks, these platforms use exchange-style markets where users can trade or bet against other market participants.

These markets are generally more welcoming to profitable trading strategies. For example, BetDEX openly welcomes winning bettors and advertises no stake limiting.

SO, WHAT DOES TITANARB DO?

TitanArb automates sports arbitrage on decentralized prediction and betting platforms.

Instead of visiting different platforms, comparing odds, calculating how much to bet, and placing each bet yourself, TitanArb handles the process automatically.

TitanArb scans decentralized markets for differences in odds, identifies profitable arbitrage opportunities, calculates the required stakes, and automatically attempts to place bets that cover all possible outcomes.

When every required bet is successfully matched at profitable odds, the result is a secured arbitrage profit.

IN SIMPLE TERMS

You do not need to spend hours searching for profitable odds or manually placing bets.

TitanArb finds sports arbitrage opportunities and executes the bets automatically for you as you go about your daily business.
